THE RICHMOND WHIG.

VOL. 1--NO. 12. RICHMOND, VA., APRIL 17, 1865. PRICE: FIVE CENTS.

FEELING OF THE PEOPLE OF THE NORTH TOWARD THE SOUTH.

One of the main arguments used by the leading men of the North during the existence of the late rebellion, to keep alive the passions of the whole country, and especially of the North, was the assertion, which was constantly reiterated on the stump, in the newspapers, from the pulpit, by public and private, everywhere, that the people of the North in the war for the Union, were not actuated by the most deadly hatred towards the people of the South; that they did not desire to devastate the Union, but simply wreak on them a long hoarded vengeance; that they would rather cut off a throat, or burn a home, than to save life or stop the flame. These infamous sentiments of the motives of those who were putting their lives to peril to save the country from anarchy had their effect in making the people of Dixie not only willing to acquiesce in the tyranny established by Jeff. Davis, but also it in every way. How unreasonably false and barely untrue these assertions were, it has been our misfortune long to state. Suffice it now to quote, in refutation of them, some words uttered by the most prominent Republican journal in Northern New York. On the reception of the news of the surrender of Gen. Lee and his army, that journal, instead of saying "hang all of them," as it would have done had it only been a Democratic paper, spoke thus:

General Lee surrendered his whole army, with all its artillery, baggage trains, munitions of war, and everything, and with it the most superior spirit of respect for brave soldiers, treats the officers and men with due courtesy, and gives them liberty on their parole of honor.

In the surrender of an army which, during four years, has set at defiance the whole power of the mightiest nation on earth, which, we have the grandest tribute ever yet paid to the most powerful strength and matchless prestige of the republic. . . . It is a tribute, also, to the wonderful genius and bravery of General Ulysses S Grant, who has brought about the termination of this gigantic war.

We trust this as virtually ending the struggle, because it is evident that every one of the Confederate Generals will feel inclined to protract the war and waste more rivers of blood after their own ruin is decided, when the tremendous resources of Virginia has been the main stay of the rebellion, has abandoned all hope, and thrown himself and his army upon the magnanimity of the conqueror. Once more, as a source of regret that such a one should have been found fighting against us as leader while the race had to be considered immortal. And now, when, at the mighty struggle, when this terrible array, which has been for four years the only bulwark of the rebellion, has ended the reign of terror and blood by bringing to peace as it once brought us war, we feel that we should be churlish and narrow-minded indeed could we refuse this public tribute to the valor of the Army of the Confederate army of Northern Virginia. They fought well so long as there was a hope of success for their cause, and in their discipline, their courage, their steadiness, their perseverance and endurance, they exalted the American name in the opinion of all the world and the whole civilized world.

The men who have fought out such a conflict can afford to close it without bitterness or hatred. They have fought it loyally, and know each other henceforth to be men worthy of the American race.

We speak now of the soldiers of the rebel armies. Of the political chiefs who have driven them on, ever fierce, we do not now care to speak. We fought for liberty and peace, and having secured them, both, we are willing to be becoming magnanimity with the soldiers of the conquered army. They would have protracted the struggle, but have chosen to submit for the table side, and by so doing they have secured the return of peace to their desolated homes, and put an end to useless bloodshed. We are content, and we recommend generosity, and we should be base and unfeeling did we not acknowledge this much. They have struggled for a great end, and they have not failed from any volition or relenting on their part, but from their object seemed at most certain. How fearful, then, must be their regret at disappointment, chagrin and humiliation.

These remarks are from the New York Evening Journal, and are certainly anything but vindictive. Could handsomer things be said of men who have been doing their best for four years to subvert the Government. We believe the people of the North are disposed to forgive all those who "during civil strife must for regretful" in the years to come, the whole land up, they cannot complain. Hardly anybody will regret it, yet we repeat that the people are forgiving in their disposition, and are not bloodthirsty. — Ace. State Journal.

Gen. Gordon, commanding the Union forces at Charleston, has received a message from Hesley, in which the Rebel chief states that he does not care a d—n about the surrender of Lee, and that he is determined to fight as long as he has a man left. He may fight his way to the gallows.

The funeral services of the late brig. Gen. Wilkinson were attended on Wednesday at Trinity Church, New York, in presence of an immense congregation. Their military reminiscences now of the regular army have a mournful cast.

CIRCULAR.

HEADQUARTERS PENINSULA DISTRICT,
Richmond, Va.,
April 14, 1865.

Special Orders from Headquarters of the Department of Virginia and North Carolina, announcing the unconditional surrender of the Confederate States forces, operating against the Army of the James, is received.

It is announced that the surrender of Gen. Lee's army, and of such other forces as may be still in the field in the State of Virginia, operating under his command, is a part and parcel of, and only although they operate in a separate district.

Company of such troops are known to be still under the immediate command of Gen. Lee, and that they will receive their home and parole from the officers and men to whom they surrendered as prisoners of war and he pledges himself

OFFICIAL.

TO THE INHABITANTS OF VIRGINIA.

The following order of the supreme civil authority in Richmond are hereby informed that no difficulty will be made in admitting them to bring market wares to this city. They are invited to come in their ordinary traffic at once, and assumed a protection in passing to and fro within the lines of the United States forces.

The citizens of Richmond, and shopkeepers and others, are also requested to resume their ordinary avocations as speedily as possible. It is the established intention of the military authorities to protect all good and peaceable citizens, and to restore, in as great a measure as may be practicable, the former prosperity of the city. No molestation by soldiers or others will be allowed, if possible to any who are engaged in peaceful pursuits.

Ordered, that all civil and military commanders in conformity with the above announcement.

Assassination of President Lincoln!

The most ... blow which has ever fallen upon the people of the South has descended. Abraham Lincoln, the President of the United States, has been assassinated! The decease of the Chief Magistrate of the nation, at any period, is an event which profoundly affects the public mind, but the time, manner, and circumstances of President Lincoln's death render it the most momentous, the most appalling, the most deplorable calamity which has ever befallen the people of the United States.

The thoughtless and the victorious may affect to ... satisfaction from the sudden and tragic ... of the President; ... but every reflective person will deplore the awful event. ... nothing can happily conspire to a restoration ... tranquility, under the benignant and ... influence of Mr. Lincoln, ... this terrible ... God grant that it may not rekindle with ... intensified passion again!

That a man of any ... should fratricidal, should ... the ... and bloody deeds in the ... field was to be expected, but that the assassin's knife and bullet should follow the great and beloved of the nation in their daily walks and recreations—that ... by their friends, is an atrocity which will shock and appall every honorable man and woman in the land.

The secrecy with which the assassin or assassins ... their ... indicates that there were ... who accomplices in this ... crime. The ... abhorrence with which it is regarded on all sides, will, ... hoped, deter ... and malignant ... from the emulation of the infamy which attaches to this ... deed.

We cannot pursue the subject further. We contemplate too deeply and painfully the terrible aspects of this calamity to comment upon ... Further ... as we have ... all ascertained them, ... subjoined. The President visited Ford's Theatre ... Friday night, and about thirty minutes past ... o'clock, whilst leaving the Theatre, was wounded ... the head by a pistol shot fired by John Wilkes Booth. He died at twenty-two minutes past seven ... morning, ...

Mr. Seward ... also wounded in his own house, ... is in a fair way to recovery.

The people of Petersburg had their ... ing news ... yesterday before it was made ... public here. Judge W. T. Joynes, Roger A. Pryor, ... and others, ... and ... addressed the ... in a call for a public meeting to express, ... words could ..., their grief for so ... an event, their ... abhorrence of the deed, and their sympathy ... the bereaved. We ... that the citizens of Richmond will take ... action.

If any arguments were ... needed to convince the people of the South that the effort to destroy the Union was an act of folly rather than of ... they will find it ... in the ... worthiness of the false philosophy on which the Hamilton leaders based their movement. The fruitful ... of slavery in only one of the many public ... interests which were involved in the question ... secession. ... Had the ... been successful, ... we will briefly show how little the dismemberment ... would ... its true position, and how unfounded have been their hopes concerning it.

The great and patriotic men of the South, in the days of Washington and Jefferson, saw in the ... of slavery, and sought to avert them by ... gradual ... system of gradual emancipation, ... from that day forward the wisest and most thoughtful of our Southern citizens—men holding ... high ... and ... farming ... with their own hands—have fully ... and known that the settlement of the civilized world was against the institution, and that they ... by ... of retaining it was by retaining the protection which the Federal system afforded it in the ... ... slave ... country.

But a favorite dream of the disunionist was the establishment of an independent slaveholding Republic. ... The apostles of the Secession creed taught that a dissolution of the Union would confirm and ... permanently establish slavery in the South; ... the institution, instead of being weakened and destroyed, would be vindicated in the eyes of the world as a Divine appointment of labor, intended to endure as long as man inhabited the earth.

The immediate object with which the Northern people entered upon the war was not the destruction of slavery. Their design was to preserve the Union ... uphold the just authority of the Nation, to defend ... and ... of a people to protect themselves ... [illegible] ... [illegible] ... [illegible]

THE CITY.

FROM JEFFERSON TO ABRAHAM—A KNAPSACK.—We examined on Saturday the enclosure of one of these curious souvenirs of the war that like their recipients, "cannot become history." We offered to buy a cup of coffee or tea, but we don't know which the former's greed for gain, or his desire to show off which formerly graced the mansion of President Jefferson Davis, but which was disposed of at auction on Friday last, by Messrs. Bell, Bliley & Co., their store, a few days before the evacuation, when Mr. Davis concluded to "decline boarding," and make a tour for his health. The outfit for the tour consisted of a knapsack, substitutes for shirts at Rockets at six o'clock in the morning, and the Metamora at two o'clock in the afternoon, from the same landing. Persons provided with the proper passports can make the trip as the North Star did the former, via Fort City Point, Old Point Comfort or Norfolk City.

NEW MODE.—We have not laid on our table a specimen of musical intelligence, from the establishment of Messrs. George Dunn & Co., which have resumed business at the corner of Main and Fifth streets. Messrs. Dunn & Co. have been the publishers for many years of leading pieces in demand for several years, and their new publications come imported a standard reputation to Southern music, now happily blended with the national spirit song and patriotism of the present day.

"A Union of Lakes and a Union of Lands,

A Union of hearts and a Union of hands," is Union forever.

We have from the above publishers the follow ing: "The Murmur of the Shell," with accompaniment for the piano forte or guitar, "The Guard," "Bonnie Dundee," "Ah! Sweet Dream of Day," "Mocking Bird," with piano-forte accompaniment, a new ballad called "Dreaming of Thee," song with piano accompaniment: "I've no Mother to Call Me Dear," "Oh! Lay Me Down to Sleep in Mother Earth," "Oh! Wrap Me Over With the Cold Sod Only," "Oh! Bury Me Not on the Lone Prairie

[COMMUNICATED.

THE DEMORALIZED TRANSFORMED.

How refreshing it must be to a man who (like) yal as he was to the Government of the Confederate States of America,) could not show his face by day or many months, but, like a malefactor fled to prowl about in the darkness of night, to notice the sudden transformation that has taken place in men's minds, and the wonderful metamorphosis which has converted, in less than no time, the most ardent Confederates into as staunch and loyal Union men as ever graced the ranks of the Old Bay State herself. Every man in subject, more or less, to occasional fits of self-conceit; he seeing his great pleasure and cause for exultation, from seeing his adversaries come round, after awhile, to his own views, and the ultimate triumph of the principles may even atone for long-protracted ignorance.

There we have in our midst the worthy descendants of that once famous people, who were the Chosen of the Lord in that good olden time, where wonders and miracles were as plentiful as Gooseberries shipmasters were in our own blessed age of steam reality. Ever since the days of Titus Vespasian the Children of Israel were, so to say, homeless and friendless, for none of the other nations among whom they came to reside, liked their company much, until at last, in those later days, they found another "promised Land" within the borders of the Sunny South.

The "peculiar institution," had a particular attraction for them, and when it culminated in the establishment of the Southern Confederacy, none bailed "our young Republic" with greater rapture than our friends the Israelites. They, in fact, were the authors of a new empire, which was to eclipse mother Earth herself, adorned their houses, beblooming the particle and the air, with their fragrant incense; even went so far as to unite in the noble army which was to whip the whole of creation; but, in most cases, the following of Moses, by volunteering in the ranks, neglistora, and contented themselves with serving the Confederacy by less perilous and more profitable pursuits.

Blockade running furnished the poor inhabitants of the Sunny South with all the articles necessary to their comfort, and at the same time afforded the enterprising Shylock an opportunity to follow that best of all avocations: "Put money in thy purse."

It is not a little gratifying to know, that greenbacks and gold is to be had with our Hebrew neighbors now, as the less artistically executed bluebacks, embellished with the picturesque likenesses of many a great statesman, and of Gen. Lee, ever were in former times; and we may congratulate ourselves that the "fatted calf" is not now so repulsive as it was promised to be a month ago.

But if the almighty dollar has wrought such a change with a portion of the children of the Sunny South, there remains one subject whether all or part will follow the good example and become peaceful and loyal citizens of a common country. To this best were the blacks, which we have heard utter against the Vandals, and too grievous was the oppression under which the South groaned during its ultimate struggle for freedom, as genuine Southern could ever think of compromising with such a people. We cannot take up our mind to believe, for instance, that Wade Hampton of South Carolina, once a the hero of a thousand last ditcher, with his pedigree of illustrious ancestors fooling clear back to the days of Charlemagne, will ever have the heart to wield over the head of a descending with the low-bred "blue-belly" from down East who cannot even claim a lick of the blood of the Normans, but only by zoologists of the Palmetto State a great deal lower than the "alligator"—as a kind of semi-amphibious animal, partaking of the cunning fox (our people) and the all-fours of another kind of reptile. A real South Carolinian, of the original stamp, we are afraid, will never submit; so, never!

For him, and all others will be no other alternative but to reinstate from an oppressed country to join Hon. Mr. Foote, of Tennessee, take a lantern in hand, like Diogenes, and both going together to hunt for some real and acquestered place where their feelings will be properly respected.

Perhaps the gentlemen of jewelry and diamonds from patriotic ladies and gentlemen, which Mr. Trenholm, some time ago, said he was ready to receive for the benefit of the Quartermaster's relief the tax of twenty-five per cent. on all gold and silver coin in the Confederacy, which an all-wise and providential Congress, never to be forgotten in the nick of time, all these resources may enable the inventive financier to pay the board for a not too numerous party of Israelites from this table who may conclude in the evening whether to pay or starve the whole of mankind, as Timon of Athens did in the olden time, also to bad go through with it state.

SPEECH OF ADMIRAL FARRAGUT AT NORFOLK.

Four years ago Admiral Farragut was compelled by the rebels to leave Norfolk, but last week he returned, and when his presence became known the citizens gave him an enthusiastic public reception at Gleason's Theatre. W. W. Harrison presided, and Gen. Gordon and his staff were present. An address of welcome was delivered by Mr. Charles H. Porter, of the Union League Committee, and the Admiral replied as follows:

"Mr. Chairman and fellow-citizens: I thank you, fellow-citizens, for the cordial reception you have been pleased to give me. I shall always remember it with pleasure, and I shall always be willing to do all in my power to promote the welfare of this city. I have been absent from it for many years, and during the whole of that time I have had no other thought than to return to it, and to return to it in the manner I have done. I have had no other object in view than to restore it to the Government of the United States, and to the position it occupied before the rebellion

INTERESTING FROM SHERIDAN.

MOVEMENTS OF THE UNION ARMIES SINCE THE SURRENDER OF LEE.

Though the surrender of the Army of Northern Virginia is an accomplished fact, our army is not idle, but whatever duty is necessary to complete the entire work is seen now to rapid motion. The Twenty-fourth Army Corps, says the New York Times, a body of men that can out march any other body in the world, moved on Sunday for Lynchburg, and just as General Grant left Burkesville for City Point on Tuesday afternoon, he received a dispatch announcing the occupation of that city by our troops without opposition.

As soon as Sheridan had rested his men and horses he moved directly for Danville, and has recently occupied the place, as it was but seventy-five miles distant. This places his force directly on Johnston's rear, and cuts off his hope of escape. Gen. Sherman moved from Goldsboro on Monday last for Raleigh and between Sherman and Sheridan the public can judge of Johnston's chances of escape. Important news from these columns is hourly expected.

The greater portion of the Army of the Potomac will speedily return to the vicinity of Richmond and Petersburg, to await further disposition. The soldiers are all happy, and anticipate an early discharge and retirement to their homes.

CONDITION OF MR SEWARD.

The side of Mr. Seward's face injured by his fall has been placed in splints instead of bandages, since which time the swelling has become reduced, and now he does not suffer so much pain. He is unable to leave his bed as yet, and is generally more easy in the day time than during the night. At last he is very painful to him, owing to the injury of his jaw, to receive a state and speech to communicate with others.

OFFICERS OF THE CITY BATTALION CAPTURED AT AMELIA COURT HOUSE.

The City (24th Virginia) Battalion was among the last troops that left Gen. Richmond Kent Richmond, and a whole of whose command were captured near Amelia Court House, by Gen. Sheridan, will the surrender of the rebs and their corps. To this day, the following names of the officers of the Battalion captured on that occasion will interest many of our readers. The officers enumerated are all well: Lieut. Col. Wyatt Elliott; Major, Hermann; Capt. Wm. H. Allen; Capt. John R. Fisher; Capt. L. L. Bass; Capt. T. L. Hobbs; Capt. Charles D. Anderson; Lieut. James W. Riley; Lieut. George Bell; Lieut. Charles A. Epes; Lieut. R. F. E. Sheppard; Lieut. Thos. H. Harris; Lieut. R. G. M. Dillard; Lieut. Geo. H. E. Blair and Lieut. Samuel A. West.

CAPTURED CONFEDERATE OFFICERS.

Brs. S. E. Brown, of the Carlisle Commissioners, writing from Wilson's Station, has kindly sent us the following list of Confederate officers, who are now prisoners in our hands. The recent capture of some of them has already been me ntioned, but for the most part, upon report.—Mr. Brown reached this far at the request of Brigadier General Hunton.

Brig. Gen. Cooke, Brig. Gen. Barton, Brig. Gen. Hunton, Col. Aylett, 53d Virginia infantry; Lieut. Col. Thurston, 53d Virginia infantry; Col. Phillips, 9th Virginia infantry; Lieut. Col. Howard, artillery brigade; Capt. Howard, Gen. G. W. C. Lee's staff; Capt. Smoot, artillery brigade; Capt. Nelson, 9th Virginia infantry. Lieut. Nelson, 28th Virginia infantry.

HORNER ARTILLERY BATTALION.

Hughes' Artillery Battalion, longstreet's corps, Army Northern Virginia, when surrendered at Appomattox, embraced 97 men, horses, guns, &c. Battalion under command of Capt. Smith's battery numbered fifteen, Moody's 11, Parkers' 32, Taylor's 32 and Ficklin' 47.

THE FIRST NEW YORK MOUNTED RIFLES.

The well-known regiment's present success and use of the First New York Mounted Rifles, Colonel Steenman, into Southern North Carolina. This gallant regiment carried in the city yesterday morning, direct from Suffolk, Va., and thence were the fine conditior, and though somewhat travel stained, showed the marks of their recent hearty marching and fighting.

FROM NORTH CAROLINE

The Herald's Newbern dispatches of the 9th instant state that the entire reorganizing of General Sherman's army had been completed, and that it was ready to enter upon a new campaign for the subjugation of General Johnston's rebel military power, if that rebel chieftain shall choose to offer any further resistance after hearing of Lee's surrender. The news of the capture of Richmond of course created great rejoicing in Newbern yesterday, as the north side of the Neuse river, between Newbern and Goldsboro', is entirely cleared of armed rebels; but on the north side of the river small bands are seen prowling bands. One of these on the 7th inst., captured and barred Dr. Skinner and two negroes, ladies with supplies for Sherman's troops, on their way up the river. The only interruption Sherman's communications have suffered. General Mower has succeeded Gen. Williams as commander of the Twentieth corps, in Sherman's army.

TELEGRAPHIC ITEMS.

AFFAIRS AT GALVESTON.

New York, April 14.—The steamer Corsica, from Norfolk on the 10th instant, arrived here to-day. The block ade runner Denbigh, with 1,000 bales of cotton, arrived at Nassau on the 30th ult. from Galveston. She reported that Galveston was still occupied by the rebels. Twelve rebel ships were off the bar, and six steamers had sailed recently for Havana for cotton.

THE SIEGE OF MOBILE.

New Orleans, April 6.—Advices from the army about Mobile to the 4th instant, state that the water communications between the Spanish Fort and Mobile were completely closed by a battery erected above the fort. The rebel communication with Mobile are now entirely suspended. The siege progresses favorably.

THE REBEL FORCES IN KENTUCKY.

Lexington, Ky., April 13th.—Gen. Palmer is at Knoxville, Ky., with the 23d corps, and will move on the rear of the Rebel forces in the State, including Col. Jones' command. They will not surrender will be destroyed outlaws, and the people will be called upon to put them down. Gen. Palmer has ordered every one found in arms to be executed yesterday to-day, Hobson.

THANKSGIVING IN WISCONSIN.

Madison, Wis., April 13.—Governor Lewis has appointed Thursday, as a day of thanksgiving and rejoicing over the late victories. The legislature adjourned sine die on Monday.

THE PORT OF KEY WEST.

The President has issued a supplementary proclamation in regard to the Port of Key West, as follows:

Whereas, by my proclamation of this date, the Port of Key West, in the State of Florida, was in part erroneously included among those which are ordered to be open to commerce.

Now, therefore, be it known that I, ABRAHAM LINCOLN, President of the United States, do hereby declare and make known that the said port of Key West will not be open to foreign and domestic commerce, upon the same conditions by which that commerce has heretofore been permitted.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington, the eleventh day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five, and of the independence of the United States of America, the eighty-ninth. ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

By the President: WM. H. SEWARD, Secretary of State.

GENERAL LEE.—The publication of General Lee's letter to Governor Letcher has given rise to much speculation. He was within the Union lines by virtue of his arms, which he laid down on the 9th inst., and another was in the hands of the enemy, to surrender, or be captured by the Union forces, and, of course, a prisoner. The personal property and effects of General Lee, following after soldiers, are liable to confiscation. The great army which has carried him and which he had bid upon so many battle fields, is swallowed him but completely humbled. The people have no hostility are the just contempt of his enemies. The Washington Chronicle says that General Lee is under parole with a letter for to the hon. of his superior's angels, and not to visit the.—Missing Journal, 14th.
